College Library Receives Rare Books From Seegers

Wartburg's Library has just received another shipment of books as a gift from Dr. Walter H. Seegers, professor of physiology at Wayne University, Detroit, Mich.

These donations from Dr. Seegers began to arrive in December of 1954. Counting this last shipment, the total number of volumes now totals 2,500.

Selected By Seegers

Each shipment, selected by Dr. Seegers personally, is made up of books from every field, including science, literature, music, history and the classics. Biographies of great writers, statesmen and royalty have been included.

Many of the books are unusual and have beautiful "old-type" bindings. Some of the authors included in these are Ibsen, Voltaire, Whittier, Thackeray and other outstanding writers.

Lincoln Collection Included

This last shipment contained an excellent collection of "Lincoliana," many of which were rare and valuable. Included, too, was a set of volumes of the works of Harriet Beecher Stowe, with the first volume autographed by her just before her death.

Many miscellaneous works which have added flavor, balance and variety to the library's collection were included in this last shipment, as reported by Miss Perna Lohn, head librarian.

IT'S TRADITIONAL

Evening Chapel Is Unique Feature

By Linda Mugridge

6:15 and 6:45 — Chapel, Little Theater.

This line, taken from Wartburg's Week, could meet and defeat "The Ten Commandments" or "My Fair Lady" in any battle over length of run. With a few variations in starting time, it has faithfully appeared in the Trumpet for over ten years.

Before this stand began, however, evening chapel at Wartburg did not exist. In its place was a joint chapel-convocation, lasting twenty to thirty minutes. In 1935, the year Wartburg finally took root at Waverly, all 175 members of the student body trooped down to the present library-stacks room every morning at 10.

Featured Faculty

The chapel-convo programs were mainly conducted by faculty members, although outside speakers were often featured two or three times a week. A faculty committee headed by Dr. John Hiltner, Latin Department, selected the speakers. The outside lecturer stranded by icy roads was nightmare material then, according to Dr. Hiltner. This daily Knightly pattern continued for about ten years.

Tagging along with the growth of the Wartburg student body came the need for a larger meeting place. In the mid 1940's the Little Theater became the assembly ground.

PAUSING AT THE END of a busy day, Wartburg students gather for evening chapel.

Committee Evolves

The committee regulating chapel gained new members — students — and gradually evolved into the present Religious Activities Committee. Dr. Hiltner supervised chapel until 1955, when the Rev. E. A. Schick, college chaplain, took over the responsibility.

At first, faculty members spoke almost exclusively at chapel. Gradually, student speakers appropriated the chapel services until faculty speakers became a rarity. The pendulum has now swung back to the median, a balance between faculty, students and outside speakers.

Schick Says—

The pendulum was given an added push toward the center by Schick, who said, "Chapel services had become exclusively student affairs with no adult supervision and were considered practice sessions."

This year the Rev. Waldemar Gies, Christianity Department, is in charge of speaker selection. Any senior student, regardless of major or curriculum, may speak at chapel. Last April the present seniors filled out questionnaires indicating their interest in conducting chapel services, and student chapel speakers are chosen from those showing positive interest.

Program Unique

Wartburg's evening chapel is unique, according to a survey of 25 church-related colleges last year. The study, which was conducted by Duane Matz, then chairman of the Student Senate Religious Activities Committee, showed that Wartburg was the only school with voluntary evening chapel.

The primary aim of evening chapel at Wartburg, according to statements given to students planning to conduct a chapel service, is "the worship of God, which means at the same time the edification of the believer."

"We're open to suggestions," said Schick. "We want the strongest possible series of evening worships."

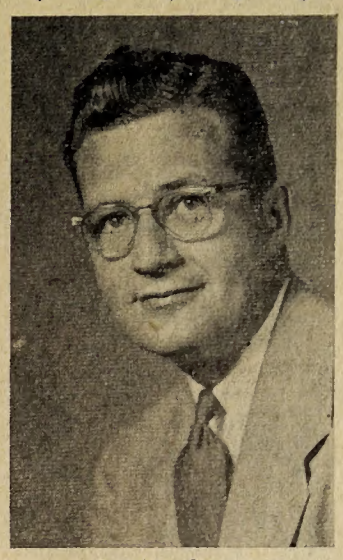
Spiritual Emphasis Week Set



Speaker Cornils

Cornils Featured Speaker As Committee Fills Slate

The Rev. E. J. Cornils of Columbus, Ohio, will be the featured speaker during Spiritual Emphasis Week beginning on the Wartburg campus tomorrow.

Since "Extend the Kingdom" is the theme of the festivities, the week is under the direction of a committee, consisting of the presidents of the four campus religious organizations, Chi Rho, Phebes, Mission Fellowship and Lutheran Student Association, and the chaplain, the Rev. E. A. Schick.

Purpose of Spiritual Emphasis Week is to give students and faculty members a medium by which they are challenged and motivated in the adventure of spiritual life, according to Chaplain Schick.

Former Wisconsinite

Pastor Cornils attended St. Paul Academy and St. Paul Lutber College, St. Paul, Minn. After graduation from Wartburg College and Seminary, he was pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Berlin, Wis.

At the present time Cornils is Assistant to the Director of Stewardship and Finance, American Lutheran Church, with offices in Columbus, Ohio. He is also director of the Capital Fund-Raising Service.

Highlights of Spiritual Emphasis Week include Holy Communion, vespers, convocations and discussion groups after vespers.

Opens At St. Paul's

Services at 8 and at 10:45 tomorrow morning in St. Paul's will get the week-long observance under way. The sermon, to be given by Pastor Cornils, will be entitled "By Praying for Spiritual Sight," followed after the 8 o'clock service by Bible Discussion Groups.

Monday Pastor Cornils will lead vespers with Elaine Schneider, junior, as liturgist, followed at 7:15 with an "Ask and Discuss" group. Tuesday will feature Cornils in convo with "By Fighting the Good Fight of Faith." Olinda Deines, senior, will act as liturgist.

In the evening Dennis Wessels, junior, will serve as liturgist in the vesper service, followed at 8 with a group discussion.

Coffee Scheduled

Wednesday a coffee hour will be held in his honor at 3 p.m. for faculty and staff in Lutber Hall. "By Witnessing" will be the theme of the sermon to be given by Pastor Cornils at vespers that evening with Charles Maas, senior, as liturgist. Following will be another discussion group.

Thursday in convocation he will speak on the subject, "By Offering Your Gifts," with liturgist Duane Matz, junior. Holy Communion will be observed at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Pastor Schick will close the week with a vesper's sermon, "Let God Be God." Liturgist will be Ann Finnern, junior.

Plan Funds For Building

Approval of a three-year campaign to raise funds for the expansion of Wartburg's facilities was given by the executive committee of the Alumni Association Board of Directors Tuesday.

Included in the plans will be fund-raising for Clinton Hall, the library and chapel-auditorium. Total cost of the three buildings, furnishings and landscaping will be approximately $1,100,000. The American Lutheran Church is expected to give $500,000 in its pre-merger stage, alumni and the Development Association raising the remaining $600,000.

The Alumni Association, which is expected to raise between twenty and thirty per cent of the $600,000, will solicit from each of its members. An Alumni Board of Directors meeting has been called March 4 in order to speed campaign activity.

Alumni president Walter Fredrick, Garnavillo, said, "This is our opportunity to make Wartburg College an even stronger force, to help Christian liberal arts make the impact which this world needs and needs now. Our action as alumni can spur on the other friends of Wartburg College and make all the dreams of her development come true even sooner than expected."

Enrollment At 820

Wartburg enrollment now stands at 820, according to Miss Mattie Harms, registrar. This number includes the 33 new students.

Kenton Out, Brown In For Pop Concert Choice

Lack of interest on the part of Stan Kenton has led Wartburg pops concert chairman Don Hamilton to contact No. 2 choice, Les Brown.

Kenton, finally located in Hollywood, after several attempts by Hamilton, has shown no interest as yet in filling the contract to appear here for a concert April 15. Meanwhile, word has been received from Brown that he is definitely interested in making an appearance at Wartburg.

"Brown probably will get the job if we don't hear from Kenton very shortly," said Hamilton Thursday.

In Other Business

The agenda for Monday night's Student Senate meeting will include a complete report on Homecoming activities. The report will be presented by Jim Schwarz, general chairman for the event last fall.

Senior Phil Moeller will give a report on the possibility of renewing the lecture series as a function of student government. Also to be brought up at the meeting will be the matter of providing a mixer for the Luther and Wartburg student bodies following the Luther basketball contest here Feb. 11.

Purpose will be to promote intercollegiate relationship between the two student groups, according to Charles Maahs, Student Body vice president, who will conduct the meeting in the absence of prexy John Adix.

Project Up Soon

Also on tap will be a discussion of the Student Body project, which may get rolling in a week or two.

Juniors Dennis Dickman and Barbara Clasen have been chosen to head the Junior-Senior Banquet Committee, according to junior class president Herbie Hafermann. Plans for the banquet will be taking shape soon.

Scholarship Blanks Ready

Scholarship applications for the coming school year may be made in Dean Florence Hertlein's office starting today. Final deadline is Feb. 28. Selections will be made by March 15.

Students must apply in order to be considered for these awards. A large number of class scholarships are given as well as a group of special scholarships.

Class scholarships are awarded on the basis of grades. However, many factors other than grades are considered in choosing the recipients for special scholarships. Many carry specific requirements such as home area, year of school or major.

Mrs. Hertlein stressed the importance of applying because more scholarships could be given if there were more qualified applicants.

Fritschel Delegate To Education Meet

Senior Kay Fritschel has been chosen as Wartburg's delegate to the Iowa Student Education Association meeting in Des Moines next weekend.

Dick Steege, junior, has been named as alternate. Another junior, Marjorie Clark, is a candidate for vice president at the state convention, according to Miss Stella Austerud, Education Department.

Today's Student Silent? Not So, Says NSA Book

Critics of the present day have been quite vociferous in their denunciation of today's students. Calling them everything from "silent" to "gutless," they have taken great delight in pointing out how utterly unconcerned today's student is about anything except money and financial security.

However, while there may be some justification for these charges, the picture is far from the shades of black as painted by the critics. There are some brighter tones.

This week the National Student Association released a voluminous book of resolutions on topics ranging from the role of student athletics to international politics. Dozens of resolutions on practically every topic are listed.

Students are interested in the problems which surround them, whether they be on the campus, in the state or on the national and international scene. Not only are they interested, but they are expressing themselves on the subjects.

But high-sounding resolutions on the issues should not be the only action taken. Words are fine, but deeds count.

The American student today faces this challenge — it is good that he passes "whereases" and "therefores" on the subject of — oh, let's say, desegregation. But what action is he willing to take? Is he willing to work to obtain these goals, or will he sit smugly in his student government office passing resolutions?

In his quest for a college degree, a four-year education and a high-salaried position, the American student often forgets his responsibility as a citizen. These resolutions may help to shake him out of his lethargy.

But, regardless of the effects or lack of effects, these resolutions have partially shown that at least a segment of the American Student Body is concerned about current issues, that they have done some deep thinking on the matter and that they are willing to take a stand.

It seems that girls at Wartburg can't wait all winter for the things that boys' thoughts turn to in spring. I received an anonymous letter this week in my mailbox which the girls asked me to include in this week's copy:

Dear Boys?:

We all realize that here at school we are considered the "Wartburg Family." But you don't necessarily have to take it so seriously and actually treat us like sisters.

The Girls

What this college needs is more fellows like Clarence Zwetzig who made up his mind that he was going to go out with as many Wartburg girls as he possibly could during his senior year.

The height of audacity comes from one irate student who wanted to know, "Why don't they shovel the short cuts when it snows?"

The more rule-abiding students want to know why the regular paths aren't cleared, or at least sand put down. It gives you such a ridiculous feeling to be walking down the sidewalk and find yourself flailing through the air with books and notebooks scattering hither and yon.

In the "about-face" portion of Knight Beat we add this quote, taken from Louella Parsons' column on Jan. 19:

"Hurray for Raymond Massey, who told a reporter in Panama, where he's shooting 'Naked and the Dead': 'Actors who run away from autograph seekers ought to keep right on running out of show business'."

OK, autograph seekers of Wartburg, let's see your autograph from Mr. Massey while he was here for "The Rivalry."

Evon Wick, who was pledging APO last Wednesday, didn't have to wear her monkey suit until that day, but she had a ball scaring all the girls in the dorm on Tuesday night.

Talk about the power of the press: the Trumpet gets a letter and before we get a chance to print it, the situation is cleared up.

□ □ □

No, the Trumpet isn't a coward. The reason wer'e not running the results of Thursday's readership poll is not that we're scared — we just don't have them tabulated yet. Next week we'll have a different alibi.

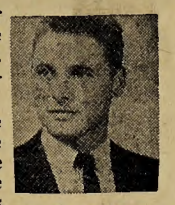
FOOTNOTES TO FAITH

Why The Rush? Take It Easier!

By Fred Downing

Try standing on the street corner of one of our larger cities. When the light changes and the crowds make their way to the other side, observe the frowns, the scowls, short tempers, irritations and impatience.



Downing

Try standing outside the library in Luther Hall during test time and observe these same characteristics of tension, worry and anxiety. God did not create us to live like this, as it contradicts every law of natural health.

Modern medicine knows that there is not one tissue in the body that is wholly separate from the mind or emotion. For this reason we have nervous disorders, ulcers and heart attacks. We need to know how to relax. Most of our bodies were not built to take the emotional beating caused by worrying about the test we messed up or being anxious for grades to be posted.

Through faith in Jesus Christ, Christians have the power to forestall the troubles of this high-speed living. There is one caution, however. Jesus meant following Him to be happy, but if we do not believe He will answer our prayers, Christianity can become dreary and sad, as it sometimes seems to us.

Even if we turn to God for help in our problems, we cannot free ourselves from anxieties unless we stop worrying. By continued worry, after turning to God, we are either doubting God's power, His ability or His willingness to help.

Our faith in God's promise to answer our prayer must be complete, trusting God as a little child trusts its father. If we do not possess the faith to do this, we must then ask God for such a faith.

One day a patient old man and his son loaded their cart with vegetables to sell in the nearest city. The son, unlike his father, was a go-getter and became violently disgusted with his father, who along the way insisted on stopping to see his brother, stopping to help a man out of the ditch, and even taking the long way because it was more beautiful.

Each time the son rebuked his father, the old man would say, "Take it easy, son. You'll live longer."

As the two approached the hills overlooking the city, hours behind schedule, a tremendous flash of lightning was visible and they heard a loud crash of thunder. The clouds became very black behind the hills, and the father said, "Looks like rain in the city."

By this time the son had made up his mind that he would never make another such trip with his father.

After reaching the hills overlooking the city late in the afternoon, they suddenly stopped. They looked for a long time. Neither of them spoke. The son finally said, "I see what you mean."

They turned their cart around and drove away from what had once been Hiroshima.

Business Student Association meets this Monday evening at 7 p.m. The topic and speaker should be of special interest to all after the crime wave in Nebraska. The FBI agent from Waterloo will speak and lead a discussion on the FBI as a career. President Tom Brower stressed that anyone, member or not, is welcome. Oh, yes, where? . . Wartburg Hall Lounge.

Bob (Whirled Affairs) Mayer, president of World Affairs Forum, informed me that the organization is meeting Wednesday —that's "dress-up night — at 7:30 p.m. Wartburg Hall Lounge is the location, and all he would tell me about the program is that it promises to be "very interesting."

I told all concerned last week that Pi Sigma initiation ceremony was this Thursday night. Well, I was right then, but now I was wrong. Follow me? At any rate, it will be held this Sunday afternoon at 4 in Centennial Hall Lounge. Oh, and before I forget, there is a small item of dues being due, old members!

This week has been designated Spiritual Emphasis Week. I can think of no better way to begin this week, or for that matter, any week, than by attending Bible Discussion Groups Sunday morning at 9. The Rev. E. J. Cornils, Columbus, Ohio, will lead the discussions.

Then, there is the campus movie tonight in the Little Theater. Aldo Ray stars in "Three Stripes in the Sun." There will be the usual "nominal" admission charge and the time is 7:30.

I found out more about the Mission Fellowship project. It seems that the members are going to clean up a room on the third floor of Old Main for use as a Religious Activities Room. —a worth-while project even if third floor is a long climb.

Central Romps To Easy Win

Axmen Lose No. 4, 69-54

Title-hungry Central's Dutch jumped off to an early lead last night and were never threatened as they walked over Wartburg 69-54.

Virgil Dykstra, 6'3" senior center, led the Dutchmen in all departments as he dumped in 24 points and gathered 18 rebounds. Forward Ken Loats took in runner-up honors in the scoring column with 17 counters.

Rebounds Ruin Knights

Undefeated Central's Ed Schulte, forward, helped ruin the Knights conference crown hopes by clearing the backboard's 11 times.

Outrebounded 47-35, the Axmen couldn't get a consistent offensive drive operating until late in the second half when the defense intercepted several passes in a row to cut the lead from 15 to 10 points.

Jensen Sparks

Dave Jensen, freshman guard, sparked the late splurge and tied Dennis Wessels, junior guard, for Wartburg's top scoring effort. Both players had 11 markers.

John Tuecke, 6'6" center, pulled Head Coach Ax Bundgaard's heart into his throat early in the second period when he turned to catch a bad pass and twisted his leg. After being helped down to the locker-room, trainer Tom Stevenson went to work on him and said after the game that Tuecke would be all right.

Down Dubuque

Knights spoiled Dubuque's deep-freeze tactics, 43-28, Tuesday night while rolling to their sixth conference win. Wartburg took the lead after 10 minutes of play and was never headed.

Adix flipped in six shots in a row to spark the Knights to an 18-13 halftime lead. Dubuque took only eight shots in the first half.

Spartans Trail

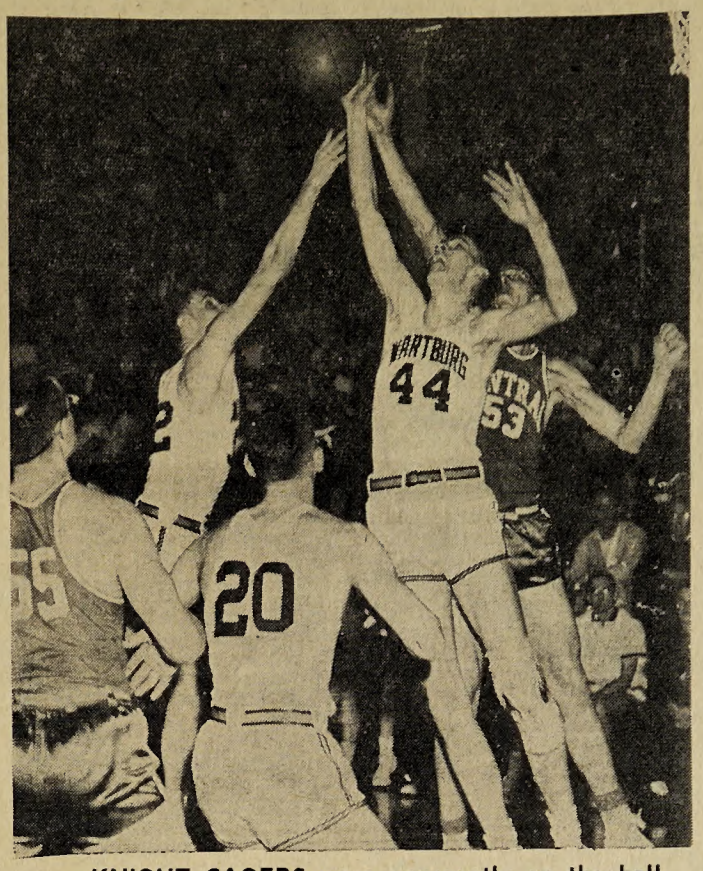
Spartans were forced out of their stall in the last five minutes of the contest, trailing by eight points. Adix paced the taller Knights in the scoring column with 15 counters for Wartburg. It was Wartburg's eighth consecutive win over Dubuque during the past four years.

Axmen had to come from behind to salvage the final game of the two-game road trip, 63-59, over Parsons College at Fairfield last Saturday.

Rebounding Duel

A rebounding duel between the two tallest sophomores in the conference, Parsons' 6'10" Vern Hallings and Wartburg's 6'7" John Tuecke, was featured in the contest. Tuecke snared 12 defensive rebounds during the second half in helping Wartburg control the backboards.

Wartburg was behind until late in the second half when Gil Wessel, forward, stole the ball, scored and tied the game at 59-59. Adix paced the Knights offensively, dumping in 22 counters.



KNIGHT CAGERS were apparently on the ball during this scene last evening as center John Tuecke (No. 44) takes the ball away from Central's Virgil Dykstra (No. 53).

Knights To Face Winona; Fight To Stay Near Top

Wartburg's basketball Knights carry the ball to Winona, Minn., Monday evening for a non-conference tilt with Winona State Teachers. The Axmen also are hosts at a Feb. 7 game with Parsons College in Knights Gym.

Parsons' "green" Wildcats dropped a close decision to the Bundgaard cagers in a Jan. 25 encounter, 63-59. They feature the "long-stretch" rebounding of 6' 10" sophomore center, LaVerne Hallings, with divided scoring assistance from a sophomore-laden team.

Despite Hallings, the Kelly Greens will give away a height advantage to the balanced Bundgaard five. Parsons is currently in a four-way battle with Dubuque, Luther and Buena Vista to climb out of the conference cellar, while the Knights hope to stay in the upper division.

Wartburg wrestlers go on the road this afternoon to meet the University of Dubuque and host Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., Wednesday evening in the second home meet of the season.

Coach Norm Johansen's matmen lost their first match this year at the hands of the University of Omaha, 17-9, last Saturday. The Knights had won two in a row.

Heavyweight Bruce Brye, sophomore, decisioned Bill Nicklos, Omaha, 6-1, while sophomore Chuck Burman, wrestling in the 137-pound division, decisioned Chip Bowley, 5-3. Freshman Jack Brannon, 130-pounder, decisioned Bruce Hunkins, 8-4, for the only Wartburg points in the dual meet.

Dubuque handed Wartburg wrestlers their only defeat last year. Knights will be bolstered by the return of junior Dick Chellevold, 137-pound veteran, who has been out of the line-up with virus pneumonia.

123 — Angelo Cuba (O) decisioned Norman Fredericks, 6-4.

IM Bowling In Spotlight

Intramural bowlers returned to action this week after participating in Waverly's Sweeper Tournament.

Two keglers, Doug Schult, who finished fourth in a field of 319, and Ron Drenkow, who finished high in the singles tournament, represented Wartburg in the competition.

In league action, Jim Boyenga picked up high game, 209, and high series, 527. Carver's first-place team faltered for the first time since early November, but managed to split 2-2 to hold a 10 game lead over second place Crest-O-Diner.

North Hall cagers remained undefeated in the American League this week as they edged Grossmann III 42-41. Cotta House, tied for first with North Hall, tromped the Vets 76-41 with Don Hamilton throwing in 18 counters.

Vollmer House threw the National League into a three-way tie for first by defeating Bolin's team 41-39.

Bundgaard To Get Ph. D. February 8

Ax Bundgaard, athletic director, will receive his Ph.D. in physical education from the State University of Iowa on Feb. 8.

Topic for his doctoral thesis is "Physical Education for Boys in Selected Iowa High Schools." The material for this work was gathered through interviews with teachers and sitting in classroom discussions.

Miss Adeline Langrock, also of the Physical Education Department, will leave Wartburg in the middle of March to attend Colorado State College, Greeley, Colo., to work toward her master's degree in physical education. Bundgaard will coach tennis during her absence.

Frosh Will Play Cornell B Today

Coach Bob Campbell's freshmen will try to get back in the win column this afternoon at 2 when they meet the junior varsity from Cornell College in Knights Gym.

The Squires had their five-game winning streak snapped by Dubuque, 49-45, Tuesday night.

Guard Ralph Meewes and forward Leo Wilharm tied for scoring honors in the Dubuque contest with 10 points each. Marvin Ott, guard, was runner-up with eight counters.

Recital By Hogan At 4:30 Sunday

Miss Mai Hogan, Music Department, will present a contralto recital Sunday in the Fine Arts Center at 4:30 p.m.

Since Spiritual Emphasis Week begins at Wartburg on Sunday, Miss Hogan will open her program with two arias appropriate for the occasion. The first is "Bekennen will ich seinem Namen" by Bach, which is the only remaining part of the "Lost Cantata for Epiphany," and "Tod und Moder dringt herein" by Telemann.

Accompaniment for the first aria will be provided by Mathys Abas, violin, from Waterloo; Fred Infelt, violin, from Waverly, and Ruth Hardwig, 'cello, from Waverly. Miss Hardwig and Mrs. Richard Hemingway, flute, from Waverly; will accompany her for the Telemann aria.

Brahms For Third

Brahms is the composer for Miss Hogan's third selection, "Two Songs for Contralto, Op. 91" with 'cello obbligato. "Gestillte Sehnsucht" and "Geistliches Wiegenlied" are the " Two Songs."

"Bonnie Laddie, Highland Laddie," "Faithful' Johnnie" and "Charlie Is My Darling" are three Scottish folk songs arranged by Beethoven next to be presented by alto voice and string trio.

From Bizet's "Carmen" Miss Hogan will sing the "Seguedilla" and the "Card Song." Two songs by John Duke, "Loveliest of Trees" and "In the Fields," and three poems by Robinson, "Luke Havergal," "Miniver Cheevy" and "Richard Cory," will appear next.

New Works Listed

Songs still in manuscript will form the next portion of the program, "All Is Fair" and "Tomorrow" by Howard and "Song" by Ellis. Concluding the program will be "The Lordly Hudson" by Rorem and "Here Comes a Lusty Wooer" by Donovan.

Miss Hogan is a graduate of Martin College, Pulaski, Tenn., and Middle Tennessee State College at Murfreesboro. She received her master of arts degree from George Peabody College for Teachers in 1951 and has been at Wartburg since 1954.

Miss Mary Anders, also of the Wartburg music faculty, will provide the piano accompaniment for the recital.

Roommates Flash Rings Same Time

They say that lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place, but apparently, diamonds do. Roommates Elaine Schneider and Helen Rae Mueller both became engaged this weekend.

Miss Schneider, junior from Chicago, Ill., is engaged to Wendell Matthias, senior from Readlyn. Future plans are indefinite.

Miss Mueller, junior from Tripp, S. D., received her ring from David Bracklein, Mason City, who is a Wartburg Seminary student. Their plans are also indefinite.

Campus Movie Tonight At 7:30

"Three Stripes in the Sun," a story of an American army sergeant who adopts an orphanage of children in Japan, will be shown by the Campus Movie Committee tonight at 7:30 in the Little Theater.

N.C. Coordinator Here Wednesday

Dr. Milo Rediger of Taylor University, Upland, Ind., will be on campus Wednesday in his capacity as coordinator for the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Wartburg is currently conducting an individual study on the revision of the faculty handbook under the auspices of the Association. Dr. Rediger will meet with the committee in charge of the study, which includes every phase of faculty administration and procedures. Dr. Gerhard Ottersberg, chairman of the committee, attended an Association workshop last summer.

Dr. Rediger will also meet individually with administrative officers, five sub-committees and the Educational Policies Committee. A dinner will be given for Dr. Rediger and handbook committee members in the evening. At 7:30 he will speak to the faculty in Centennial Hall lounge.

Want a job for summer vacation?

The Advancement and Placement Institute recently announced the publication of the 1958 Summer Placement Directory, prepared to help students get new job ideas for vacation.

Copies may be examined at the Dean of Faculty's office or may be ordered from the Institute at Box 99 G, Greenpoint Station, Brooklyn 22, N.Y., for $2 a copy.

City Will Have Station

Plans for Waverly's new AM radio station, KWVY, are nearing completion. The 1000-watt station will occupy the 1470 spot on the radio dial.

Music and programs of local interest will be aired by the station, which will broadcast from 5:30 a.m. to local sunset. Two towers have been erected south of Waverly, and the station's office has been located at 123 First St. SE.

Program Director John Talbott reports, "We plan to begin broadcasting in the foreseeable future."

Iran Paintings Here Next Week

Five reproductions of prints from the Imperial Library of Iran will be displayed in the Fine Arts Center Feb. 2-Feb. 22, according to Miss Helen Wright, Art Department.

All dating from around the 15th century, the prints are Persian illustrations to manuscripts and were made available to the public by UNESCO.

Prints by Dufy, Dali, Utrillo and Dagas, all modern painters, will be shown with the Persian prints of unknown artists.

"The aim is to point up or show off the delicate, decorative quality of the Persian prints by contrasting them with some modern painters," stated Miss Wright.

She added that the main differences are the larger size and free style of the modern group.

Grades Out

The registrar's office completed compiling semester grades this past week. Records are now in the dean of students' office, where students may look at them.
